Now His Step-Daughter, Ste-nographer to Corporation Counsel, Must Stand Trial for Absence Without Leave.

RIVES SUSPICIOUS OF DOCTOR'S CERTIFICATE.

Tammany Leader at Time of Marriage Urged Miss Graham to Resign, but Preferring Active Work, She Refused.

Miss Mabel G. Graham, stepdaughter of Charles F. Murphy, leader of Tammany Hall, was to have been tried today on a charge of absence without leave from the office of Corporation Counsel Rives.

Miss Graham's mother is the wife of the Tammany leader, and since 1899 the young woman has been employed as a stenographer in the office of the Corporation Counsel. When Mr. Murphy married her mother he urged the young woman to resign, but she declined, telling her step-father that her duties were congenial and that she preferred to have some active employment.

When Mr. Murphy went with his wife to Hot Springs, Va., a few weeks ago, Miss Graham asked for a leave of absence, saying that she was not in good health, but permission, it is said, was refused. She went to the Springs, however, with her mother and Mr. Murphy, and as a result charges were preferred against her.

The hearing was to have been held today, but the Corporation Counsel Rives received a doctor's certificate saying that Miss Graham was too ill to appear. He adjourned the case until a day to be settled on next week.

When seen Mr. Rives said: "Yes, there is a Miss Graham employed as a stenographer in this office, but whether she is a step-daughter of Charles F. Murphy I do not know, nor do I care. She went away without notifying this office. After she had gone a doctor's certificate was sent to me saying that she was ill, and while she may have been ill and while she may have been here as well as sick as the doctor claimed she was, she simply violated a rule of the office, and for that reason I ordered a hearing. The doctor's certificate would have followed in the case of any other employee of this office under the same circumstances."

MURPHY, WALKING DELEGATE, GUILTY
Partner of Sam Parks in Holding Up Contractors Convicted of Extortion by Jury Before Recorder Goff.

The jury in the case of Tim McCarthy brought in a verdict of guilty this afternoon. McCarthy was a walking delegate for the Housewives and Bridgemen's Union and the right hand man of Sam Parks, who was indicted and tried for extortion.

According to the testimony McCarthy went to the Lohr-Arrows construction Co. contractors for the Women's Hotel, and demanded $300 for calling on a strike. The money was paid and Sam Parks was also mixed up in the extortion.

The testimony was all in yesterday and the case of the prosecution was outlined. The defense argued by Patrick J. Murphy, and it was not until today that the jury was called to pass on the case.

Sam Parks, McCarthy's partner, is already in Sing Sing. He is in the hospital, and it is thought that he will remain alive to serve out his term.

BOSTON CABMEN STRIKE.
On motion of McCarthy's counsel, he was remanded until Friday for sentence. A motion for a new trial was refused.

THOUSANDS CAUGHT IN CRUSH ON BIG BRIDGE

Accident to Machinery on Worst Day of the Year Causes Bad Delay in Traffic.

On the worst day in eight months there was a blockade on the Brooklyn Bridge this morning. It began about 7:30 o'clock, and kept up until perhaps 100,000 persons were late at business.

The trolleys crossing the bridge were so packed that it was impossible for any of the passengers on the Elevated trains to get a footing on them, hardly a hand hold on the rear platform. They were so overloaded that a block was almost caused on the trolley tracks.

The light snow which was falling coated the wooden promenade of the bridge so that it was a feat to walk across to New York in anything like fast time. It usually takes about a quarter of an hour to walk it, this morning it was nearer a half hour for every one who had the misfortune to be an "L" road passenger. Many women slipped and fell, especially at the tower approaches, where the iron steps were thickly covered with ice.

The block was caused by a break in the cable machinery just outside the Brooklyn sheds. It took twenty-five men three-quarters of an hour to repair it.

Perhaps one of the worst features of the blockade, as viewed by those suffering from it, was the fact that the B. R. T. Company made a good many dollars out of it. Every morning at least 10,000 persons cross the bridge by paying a three-cent fare at the Brooklyn entrance for a ride on the local bridge trains. This morning their tickets were accepted by the "choppers," and they were permitted to huddle on the platforms until they realized that they must walk to get to their destinations anywhere near on time.

The snowstorm also caused much trouble on the Manhattan elevated roads. The trolleys were so packed that it was impossible for any of the passengers on the third rail. It took more than an hour to make the run from One Hundred and Twenty-fifth street to South Ferry. The much-heralded new rail brushes, which were thought to be going to obviate the troubles of last winter, were not worth two cents, apparently. Any way, they didn't get the trains through in half the time they should have made.

The snow, which came down like a white mantle on the city, brought anything but joy to the hearts of thousands of poor people who are forced to earn their bread in the open air. Following as it did, the advance in the price of coal, the snow left no doubts in the minds of the poor regarding the reality of winter.

Down on the east side the hucksters drew their carts wearily through the snow, cursing as they did as they advanced. Wan-faced, thin-lad children tried to get warm by running about and throwing snowballs at each other, but their cheeks were pale and their hearts were heavy.

Robert Swift and S. B. Harris came to the rescue. They had a car full of coal, and they were going to sell it at a low price. They were going to sell it at a low price. They were going to sell it at a low price.

WOMAN SQUATTER FORCED TO MOVE
Last of the Old Harlem Settlers Gives Way to the Northward March of the Big Apartment House.

When Mrs. Mary Wells, eighty years old, moves from her little shanty on the northwest corner of Ninety-eighth street and Madison avenue to-night she will be the last of the old Harlem squatters.

The tearing down of the shanty began yesterday, but under orders from Mr. Levy the workmen left one room standing over to-day in order that the aged woman might take her time in moving her belongings to the home of her sister, Mrs. Blum, at Third Avenue and Ninety-eighth street.

Mrs. Wells told an Evening World reporter today that she accepted the inevitable in moving from her little home. The march of progress, she said, would find no barrier in her opposition. Mr. Levy had been a kind friend to her and she willingly accepted his notice that she would have to move.

Mrs. Wells remembers Harlem as a wilderness when she settled there in a little shanty fifty years ago. She was married then, but forty years ago her husband was killed by a runaway horse. She was left alone with two children. She was left alone with two children. She was left alone with two children.

MYSTERIOUS MANIAC BOY DIES FROM HYDROPHOBIA

W. B. Williams, Who Was Found in Boarding-House and Attacked Nurse, Succumbs to Paresis—Relatives Wealthy

W. B. Williams, fifty years old, who gave his address as No. 403 East Twenty-third street, died in the insane ward of Bellevue Hospital to-day from paresis, a disease of the brain.

Williams was taken there on Nov. 24 from a boarding-house at No. 112 East Twenty-seventh street. He had been found sitting in a chair on the third floor by a nurse employed in the house. The nurse, asked him who he was and what he wanted, and the man sprang at her.

She rushed screaming to the street and summoned Patrolman Harrington, of the East Twenty-second street station. Harrington had to get the help of two more policemen before Williams could be taken to the hospital. How he ever got into the house is a mystery.

When inquiries were made at the Twenty-third street address where Williams gave as his home, a mechanical engineer named Walter K. Freeman, who lived there, and knew Williams, told him he had lost $200,000 in copper and was ruined.

Williams had his mail sent to the Putnam House under the name of Horace Mann, a third street address. Williams, who is married to a wealthy post-office official there.

Williams was very well dressed when taken to the hospital and had, besides a gold watch and chain, $120 in bills. His sister has been notified of his death.

Arthur Doherty, Only Nine Years Old, Was Bitten by Three Dogs with Whom He Had Tried to Make Friends.

Arthur Doherty, nine years old, died to-day in the Long Island College Hospital from what the doctors believe to be a genuine case of hydrophobia.

During the few hours he had been in the hospital he had been kept continuously under the influence of chloroform, the doctors saying there was no hope of saving his life, and that the anaesthetic would afford him a comparatively easy death.

Bitten three times by dogs in the last six weeks, the boy last night developed all the symptoms of rabies in his home, at No. 91 First street, Brooklyn. He fought with his parents, bit at them, and snapped and bit at them during the spasms, which seemed to lend him almost superhuman strength.

Had to Bind Him.
Doctors were called, but they could do nothing except bind him, so that he could harm no one. Before daylight he was sent to the hospital.

Arthur had been a great lover of dogs, mongrel curs and all other kinds. He seldom saw a dog but what he tried to pet it. But the dogs either had a strong antipathy to Arthur or he selected ungrateful animals on which to lavish his affection, for they usually turned and snapped at him.

One of them buried his teeth in the boy's leg six weeks ago. A week later another dog bit him on the arm and a week before Thanksgiving the third dog leaped to his face, lacerating his cheek and tore the eye socket.

Hit with Baseball Bat.
All these wounds were carefully cauterized and the doctors said there would be no danger. Thanksgiving Day Arthur went to see a baseball game, and was accidentally hit on the head with a bat. He was taken home unconscious, and when he was revived showed symptoms of hydrophobia. The doctors think that the water, which was pushed in his face to revive him brought on the rabies.

But he was soon over it. Since then he has remained in bed under the care of doctors. Last night, however, he again became violent, and spasms followed each other quickly.

At the hospital the boy was strapped to an iron cot, so that he could not move, and was then placed under the influence of chloroform. The doctors said he could live only a few hours, and that it would be a mercy to keep him under the influence of the anaesthetic until he died.

TO PASS DIVIDENDS ON STEEL COMMON
Announcement was made on Wall street this afternoon that no more dividends will be paid on common stock of the United States Steel Corporation.

The dividend of 2 per cent, to be paid Dec. 2, for from two and one-half to three years. This statement, while not made officially, comes from an official source.

The next dividend of 2 per cent, is cut in half from the original dividend of 4 per cent, which was the rate of interest expected when the stock was turned upon the market.

The determination to stop the payment of dividends on the common stock is due to the promoters of the trust to increase the working capital of the corporation from its present figures, $100,000,000 to $200,000,000. Paying the common stock dividend will save $20,000,000 a year on the 4 per cent dividend basis.

By saving this dividend, cutting the wages of workmen and doing away with high-salaried executives, it is expected that a saving of $20,000,000 a year will be made.

Then he went to another room and took carbolic acid, which caused his death a few minutes. McCabe is said to have been a man of violent temper, and it is believed that he was jealous of his wife, who had just been taken to the hospital.

FIANCEE OF BOY BANDIT SUPPRESSED
Police of Chicago Force Her to Leave a Museum Where She Has Been on Exhibition and Has Been Blocking the Street

CHICAGO, Dec. 2.—Interest in the boy bandits, who were captured several days ago after a fierce run on Mill-lane Station, LaSalle County, Ill., is at the same height as when they were brought back to this city in charge of a large guard of detectives.

Mamie Dunne, the fiancée of Van Dine, one of the bandits, has been forced to leave a dime museum where she has been on exhibition. As she left the streets were crowded with people who had not been able to get inside the museum while she was there.

Mayor Harrison forced the girl to leave the museum by writing a letter to the proprietor calling upon him to cease to exhibit her in the name of common decency.

Gustave Marx, the only one of the six cut-throat bandits who when arraigned in court pleaded guilty, suggested a lawyer to-day and prepared to change the plea to one of not guilty.

It is not probable therefore that Marx will be tried as soon as was expected. All of the gang have legal representation, and the chances will, it is thought, all plead hereditary insanity.

Don't Poison Baby.
FORTY YEARS AGO almost every mother thought her child must have PAREGORIC or laudanum to make it sleep. These drugs will produce sleep, and a FEW DROPS TOO MANY will produce the SLEEP FROM WHICH THERE IS NO WAKING. Many are the children who have been killed or whose health has been ruined for life by paregoric, laudanum and morphine, each of which is a narcotic product of opium. Druggists are prohibited from selling either of the narcotics named to children at all, or to anybody without labeling them "poison." The definition of "narcotic" is: "A medicine which relieves pain and produces sleep, but which in poisonous doses produces stupor, coma, convulsions and death." The taste and smell of medicines containing opium are disguised, and sold under the names of "Drops," "Cordials," "Soothing Syrup," etc. Do not, and do not permit any medicine to be given to your children without you or your physician know of what it is composed. CASTORIA DOES NOT CONTAIN NARCOTICS, if it bears the signature of Chas. H. Fletcher.

Genuine Castoria always bears the signature of Chas. H. Fletcher.
